

Poland mourns leader; peace plans in doubt

Marshal Pilsudski's Death Gives Diplomats Fresh Concern

Much Depends On Successor

Future Alliances of Polish Nation Also At Stake

(By Associated Press)

WARSAW, May 13.—The death of Joseph Pilsudski, Poland's great statesman, has given diplomats fresh cause for concern today over the outlook for peace in Eastern Europe.

Much may depend on who succeeds the iron-willed marshal. It will determine the future of the pact system which France is promoting to promote, as well as Germany's future attitude toward France's program.

Future Alliances in Doubt

It may also decide whether Poland henceforth will cast her lot with France and Russia, which have just concluded a mutual assistance agreement, or whether she will continue along the lines of German rapprochement which Pilsudski himself marked out.

Death came to the 67-year-old marshal of Poland's destinies last night after a three-days' illness. His body will be buried in the Wawel Castle at Krakow, but his heart will rest in Wilno and his will will be given to science.

These requests Pilsudski himself made of his friends after they prevailed on him to consent to burial at Krakow. There his body will be beside those of King Joseph Pilsudski and three other Polish heroes, Thaddeus Kosciuszko, who fought in the American Revolution, and Julius Słowacki.

Wilno, where the dictator's heart was interred, is the city where Pilsudski was reared and where most of his relatives reside. Wilno learned of the aged marshal's death before the Polish capital, for word was first flashed there to his family.

Mourners Gather

After the news was made public in Warsaw that the old soldier and statesman had succumbed to internal hemorrhage caused by cancer of the stomach and liver, crowds of hundreds of weeping mourners gathered outside his home, Belvedere palace.

The only official position Pilsudski held was that of minister of war. Yet his power over Polish governmental affairs was virtually absolute. Recent constitutional reforms had concentrated large powers in the hands of the president, to which Pilsudski was elected soon to have succeeded after the resignation of President Ignacy Mościcki.

Speculation over who may be his political heir named General Edward Rydz Smigly, his close friend and popular army leader; Dr. Joseph Beck, the foreign minister; and General Kasimir Sosnowski. It was generally believed the dictator left a political testament designating his choice.

Plans for a national funeral were being shaped by government leaders today. The dictator's body was placed upon a catafalque in Belvedere Castle as the nation entered a period of solemn mourning. Pilsudski's death occurred on the fifth anniversary of the 1926 coup which brought him the powers of a dictator. He had been unconscious for the last three days, but the true gravity of his condition had been withheld.

In Ill Health for Years

The marshal's health had been precarious for ten years. Ever since his return in 1922 from the Russian exile into which he was sent under the Czarist regime, he had been compelled to take unusual precautions to preserve his strength and submit to frequent rest cures.

FLEET SET FOR SECRET DASH; 2 KILLED, 4 HURT

Note of Grim Reality Is Injected In Pacific Maneuvers

2 SHIPS CRASH, AIRPLANE FALLS

42 Sloop Warships Waiting Orders for Westward Cruise

HONOLULU, May 13.—The mightiest naval concentration in Pearl Harbor's history—42 sloop warships rode at anchor today awaiting orders for a westward dash in secret maneuvers involving a supposed attacker of Hawaii.

A grim reality was thrust into the maneuvers, meanwhile, in the accidental death of two men in the collision of two destroyers and the crash of a naval airplane.

Destroyer Hils Sub

Richard Chadwick, gunner's mate, second class of Bliss field, Mich., was killed early yesterday when the destroyer Lea crashed into the stern of the Seward while patrolling against theoretical submarines. Four men were slightly hurt.

Lieut. Mathias B. Wyatt, San Diego, was killed when his plane crashed into the ocean after taking off from the aircraft carrier Saratoga.

The two destroyers crashed in the early morning darkness off Pearl Harbor. Prompt action by the damage control officer was declared to have saved the Lea from sinking. The craft was unable to get into the harbor under its own power.

The collision rendered the Seward helpless, and it was taken in tow by a mine sweeper.

Marines Take Part

Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, naval commander-in-chief, disclosed a new development in the extensive war games with announcement that a marine expeditionary force had been brought from San Diego to an undisclosed point not far from its goal.

When these sea soldiers land, the navy will have witnessed a big phase in the annual training maneuvers and the most extensive series of strategy tactics ever played by such a force.

More Than 1,000 Gallons Of Illicit Liquor Are Dumped

COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—Despite opinions of school officials to the contrary, Sen. James Metzbaum (D. Cuyahoga) insisted today that Ohio's public school costs can be reduced $3,100,000 a year.

It may take three years to do it, he said, but he presented a carefully prepared and elaborate brief to his colleagues pointing out where he believes the savings can be made. His program, the senator asserted, would give children better education and teachers better salaries.

Lists Savings

Revision of the method of school insurance with the resultant saving of $250,000 a year.

Change in the method of taking the school census with a saving of $250,000.

Short term financing with a saving of $250,000.

Revision of school transportation routes with a saving of $750,000.

Reduction in the general cost of education with a saving of more than $1,250,000.

Elimination of the salaries of clerks of boards of education with a saving of $250,000.

Elimination of salaries of local boards of education with a saving of $100,000.

Metzbaum admits his plan is not infallible, but asserts it would result in a large saving in more than $4,000,000 that is spent annually for education in Ohio.

"Since the founding of this state in 1802," Metzbaum said, "each school has been expected to raise and to supply its own funds."

"But—as more recent years have come on, it has been necessary for the state itself to step in and to furnish more and more money with which to aid those districts that have been unable to supply enough to maintain their own schools."

Metzbaum asserted there are at present more than 2,000 school districts in Ohio; some of which have as few as 10 students in the whole district. In each of these districts there are seven officials—five board members, each of whom receives compensation, a clerk of the board and a caretaker.

"In some of the 3,600 remaining one room schools," he stated, "the snow and wind blow under the door and the stove bakes the child on one side while the other side is chilled."

"Some of these schools and districts could be consolidated into present existing much better buildings, giving improved education and—beyond all this—a saving of several millions of dollars a year."

Metzbaum said that his proposed saving could be accomplished through a gradual process of reduced expenditures over a three-year period, despite a statement by Rep. R. J. Kiefer (R. Logan), co-author of the proposed Teacher-Kiefer minimum school foundation program.

Property Damaged; Youths Are Warned

Destruction of property in the southwest section of the city, especially in the Newgarland street area, brought forth a warning today from Chief of Police Ralph N. Toffer.

The warning was aimed especially at a group of boys, some of them of high school age, who have been reported destroying property around homes.

Mother Succumbs

Assignment of pastors for the Pittsburgh district, Church of the Nazarene, was made this afternoon in New Haven following the district convention here. The appointments include that of C. L. Gardner, who is returned to Salem.

Strip Dress From Girl In Robbery

HAMILTON, May 13.—Two young bandits who stripped off the dress of Elizabeth Robert, grocery store proprietress, and robbed her of $1,290, were the object of a police search today, all except $90 was taken from a money belt.

Two Pennsylvania men were held in city jail today on charges of transporting illicit liquor while the 350 gallons of whiskey which the men had loaded in their automobiles, were dumped in the rear of city hall under the supervision of Police Chief Ralph N. Toffer.

Record Grows

The arrest of the two "boot-leggers" brought the total number of liquor violators arrested here within the last two months to seven and also represented a total cache of 1,050 gallons of liquor.

Salem police have arrested four liquor violators and the state highway patrol has nabbed three, a checkup shows. When two liquor transporters from Pittsburgh were arrested here April 23, a 145-gallon haul brought the total amount of liquor dumped to 758.

Edward Andrews of Dravosburg, Pa., was arrested on East State at 12:30 a. m. today by Patrolmen Jesse Peppell and Nerr Gaunt who became suspicious when they saw Andrews' heavily laden coupe.

More than 200 gallons were found beneath the turtle-back of the machine.

Face Federal Men

The second arrest was made shortly before noon when Chief Toffer noticed a heavily-loaded coupe crossing the Pennsylvania railroad tracks on West State st. Stoffer became suspicious and stopped John Coughlin Jr., of 602 4th st. McKeesport, Pa.

In the rear of the car were 150 gallons in 30 cans. Coughlin was placed in jail with Andrews to await the arrival of federal agents from Youngstown. Both were reported enroute from Cleveland to Pittsburgh.

The board of education has received a petition from patrons of Gromm's Bridge school for admission to the Beaver School district, children to attend school at Calcutta. The same group has petitioned county commissioners to grade and surface the Gromm's Bridge road before the opening of the fall term of school.

Joseph Scroggs of Madison township has been awarded a school transportation contract for the new school term.

Ask Improvement of Columbiana Streets

The Columbiana Village council has on file a report asking for the improvement of 107 different pieces of sidewalks in town, and expresses the hope that all residents will carefully inspect their own walks and make the necessary repairs without the use of force.

As a last resort, council may pass an ordinance compelling these repairs, the cost being added to the tax duplicate, but cooperation on the part of property owners will save all concerned money in the end, city officials point out.

$2,532,499 Loans

COLUMBUS, May 13.—John E. Harper, state director of the federal housing administration, reported today that applications for loans to finance home construction and repair work, totaled $2,532,499 during the last week.

Her Own Business

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 13.—Well big headline today says Barbara is marrying a count, or a duke or something, and we get all excited and start criticizing, as though she was a ward of the people.

It's her money, it's her life. She must pay a tremendous lot of taxes to our government, she deserves some right. Her fortune was made from ten-cent purchases, so nobody got stuck very much.

So if she wants to pick up where the U. S. government left off and finance all Europe it's her own business.

Yours,

Will Rogers

DISCOVERED

The dime chain letters have given the country something to talk about and, to persons with inquiring minds, something to think about. The letters have been evidence of a type of straw-clutching elsewhere visible in the excitement over the Townsend plan and Huey Long's share the wealth movement, which grew natural, of course, out of the wealth sharing ideas of Franklin D. Roosevelt, when he was running for the presidency way back in 1932.

It is customary now to speak of the idea as something which has passed its climax and is on the downgrade. Even the officious jobholders who were willing to try to sweep back the flood with a broom were willing to admit the craze wasn't going to last very long. Nearly everyone has received a letter and a great many have taken their chance in the sweepstakes by this time.

Nearly everyone, but not everyone. For years, writers and speakers have been trying to arrive at a satisfactory definition of the forgotten man, star of Mr. Roosevelt's presidential campaign. Be it hereby recorded that the forgotten man has been discovered. It is the fellow who didn't receive a chain letter. Forgotten? Why, the poor fellow must never have been remembered.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

There are two kinds of cities, just as there are two kinds of men. One kind tries to make ends meet, and if they are too short it stretches them. The other kind doesn't worry. That distressing occupation is left to its creditors.

In the good book where merit and sin are recorded, one would expect to find many gold stars ranged in rows beside the names of men and cities who honestly try to live within their incomes. Maybe it will be that way on judgment day, but judgment day hasn't come yet.

There is a figurative good book in Washington which contains the names of cities that didn't worry about making ends meet. It's an important list right now because the federal government is getting ready to dish out a few billion dollars for work relief projects.

A city which didn't make ends meet, a bankrupt city, if you prefer a harsher term, will be entitled to get its slice of the big work relief melon as a gift. A city which did make ends meet and is boasting that it is solvent will have to take its slice on a loan basis.

Thus, cities which saved their money will have to help support cities which never did anything nobler than to spend theirs. Besides that, they will have to support themselves. Possibly that will mean the addition of more golden stars behind their names in the good book up above, but it's a questionable reward for virtue on earth. But maybe making ends meet isn't a virtue any more.

WINDUP

Apparently, the Ohio legislature is going to get its affairs in order for adjournment this week. Blessed by its position as a legislative attraction secondary to the national congress, the assembly will make its exit from the regular session quietly.

The main job of the closing week is the biennial appropriations bill. By Thursday, it will be out of the way, if everything goes well. As usual, plans are being made "to cover the clock" when the time agreed upon for adjournment is reached until all other necessary business has been finished. Since the adjournment is scheduled for May 23.

Included among the items of other necessary business are a school program, an appropriation for old age pensions and a number of minor bills of varying importance. Some of these measures are scheduled for a quiet smothering. Others, too tough to handle, probably will be sidestepped in the hope that something will turn up before they have to be faced again.

Legislative bodies rarely command admiration on the eve of adjournment. Then, more than on other times, they stand revealed as victims of their inherent weaknesses. The Ohio legislature, starting its final week of activity in the regular session, certainly is no exception.

THE STARS SAY

For Tuesday, May 14

A very lively day is presaged from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. But this liveliness is likely to be characterized by excitement, commotion, upheaval and possible indiscretions through impetuous acts. The mind and energies will be found to be under high stimuli. With firm control and discretion many benefits are seen.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of much activity, commotion, excitement and possibly turbulence, with many opportunities for constructive work and solid benefits. But there are strong tendencies to rash, impetuous and wayward indulgences of a nullifying nature.

A child born on this day will be lively, active, energetic, but impulsive, reckless and self-indulgent. With proper personal discipline in both business and private affairs it should flourish.

Notable nativity: Alan Dale, critic.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, May 13—Dairy: Awoke in such a daze I persuaded my wife to drive with me to the shore. And circled back along the Brooklyn water front. So at my dallying and heard my Gallipolis phone number is 00 and a telegram from Frank Crossinshield that pleased me mightily.

Bob Brinkerhoff came by at 3 and stayed a pipeful. Then to a framer's with a batch of autographed pictures for my Rogue's Gallery and to the Isaac Maroons for tea. And dropped in on Blanche Clarke and Hattie Belle Johnston who had been visiting the Eddie Collinses in Boston.

To Dot and Deac Aylesworth's buffet at a broadcast station. Then wandering about admiring the lighting of Radio City and tried to think what buildings were there a few years ago but could not recall even one. To bed reading a mordant novel of Pittsburgh: "Besides the Wench is Dead!"

James Thurber, Columbus, O., born, has become one of the rollicking literary figures. Beginning as a Rivers correspondent for a Paris paper, he knocked about Europe awhile and came back to join the devil-may-care crew of The New Yorker. He draws those outrageously amateish looking hilarities of rough women and pindling men and writes of the days grandpapa caught his whiskers in the cellar door. On frolicsome evenings he is remindful of Charles MacArthur and Gene Fowler in more imphish moods. And is likely to leave several cafes hurricane struck.

Cafe clowning that often ended in a free-for-all largely passed with the death of Wilson Mizner. Wherever he went, he whooped things up. Jack's lent itself to his particular talents but he was not above throwing sedate Delmonico's into a turmoil. Mickey Neilen, too, was a terror of the restaurants, as was Paul Armstrong, the playwright. And W. C. Fields.

Personal nomination for the glibbest of the stage smirks—that of Eddie Dowling.

Probably no other marital experimentation has endured so long, or so happily as that of Fannie Hurst and her tall, grey pompadoured concert pianist husband, Jacques Danielson. Theirs was the first of the separate establishment plans and has progressed for 15 years without hitch. He has his studio a few blocks away and they are in telephone communication several times a day, dine out together one or two evenings a week and take an annual jaunt abroad. Miss Hurst is frequently invited to dinner parties without her husband and vice versa. They also entertain in similar manner.

There is always something warming, too, about the professional loyalty of Bobby Clark and his stage mate Paul McCullough. Since the days when they became a couple of runaway kids with a circus from Springfield, O., they have stuck to a rather one-sided partnership. Time after time Clark has been offered big sums to star alone. But refused. McCullough goes with him in equal billing or he won't play. McCullough is a stooge and an excellent one, but nevertheless a stooge.

Upper Madison avenue expresses faith there are still extravagant people with money in the world in a de luxe shop selling bird cages. Some are priced as high as $400. The lowest $20. They are done largely in chromium and one has perches and swings done in glass by Lalque, no less! Every possible gadget is included in the layouts, even a tiny thermometer and a silver door plate upon which the names of the birds may be engraved.

Bagatelles: Ralph Barton thought Billie Dove the most beautiful of all the Ziegfeld show girls. Berton Braley's thinking cap when poeizing is an outrageous old hat. Lilly Pons is adding weight with cream cheese and a glass of milk just before going to sleep. Ann Pennington still takes dancing lessons. Michael Arlen's next—and it's about time—is in "The Green Hat" manner. Frank Buck will make one more jungle safari and live in Hollywood. Harold Bell Wright, when he comes to New York, rides the bus tops!

Pyorrhea, If Neglected Is Menace
PYORRHEA is one of the most common disorders of the mouth. It does not speak well for us that it is usually the result of improper hygiene and the neglect of dental care.

In this affliction the gums become inflamed and "pusy." If neglected there may be continued disturbance in the mouth and loss of teeth. Serious constitutional disorders are sometimes traced to pyorrhea, with continued absorption of "toxins," poisonous substances liberated by the infected gums. Few realize that failure to have the accumulated "tartar" removed and attention given faulty fittings of crowns and bridges, are common causes of pyorrhea and a hindrance to good health.

In pyorrhea the gums become dusky red, bluish or gray. This appearance is in marked contrast to the very pink color of strong and healthy gums. When the gums are infected they become swollen, spongy and painful to touch. Another characteristic of pyorrhea is bleeding upon the slightest pressure.

Physicians and dentists are emphatic in their belief that a diseased and unhealthy mouth is a definite obstacle to health and long life. Bear in mind that many constitutional disorders and disabilities can be traced to neglect of the mouth.

The time to consult a dentist is before the teeth or gums become diseased. I cannot overstate the importance of regular and frequent visits to his office. If you follow this procedure, infection, decay and loss of teeth will be prevented. All diseased teeth and gums, require closest attention and must never be neglected.

Bear in mind that if you are sensitive to pain your dentist is prepared to give you the benefits and comfort of local anesthesia. He has preparations and methods of treatment that will eliminate pain. Do not postpone visiting the dentist because constant supervision will prevent all sorts of ailments.

Value of Right Diet

In addition to dental care, let it be understood that proper food is necessary to nourish the teeth. A well balanced and nutritious diet must be followed. It should contain foods rich in vitamins and mineral salts. Include in it an abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals, milk, cream, butter and eggs. These foods will furnish substances which are necessary for strong and sturdy teeth and healthy, resistant gums.

Answers to Health Queries
C. H. M. Q.—Would you advise taking cod liver oil for a kidney disturbance?

A—I recommend that the patient should be under the care of his own physician and not attempt to prescribe for himself.

W. F. Q.—What do you advise for granulated eyelids? I am constantly troubled with this annoyance.

A—Make sure there is no tendency to eye strain. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Roberts Looms as Key Figure

Justice Owen J. Roberts

Justice and Mrs. Roberts

Roberts home

With the fate of numerous fundamental New Deal policies apparently hanging in the balance as the result of the supreme court's decision against the railroad retirement act, Justice Owen J. Roberts appears to hold the balance of power between liberals and conservatives on the supreme bench. Roberts' switch to the conservative side in the court's decision declaring the act unconstitutional gave them a five-to-four decision which may have significant bearing on the fate of future administration measures. On three controversial measures which have come before the court in the past year, Roberts voted with the liberals on each occasion to give them a five-to-four edge. Roberts is a native of Philadelphia, is married and has one daughter.

CHAPTER XXV

They found collision, in the narrow cabinet, though it was not a collision. It was a one-ounce bottle of a preparation called Renewal, which was recommended for aches and abrasions. Montigny examined it grimly. "It goes to look like you're right," he said. "And I'm right—I've been at it all along." "Let us mount then to the roof," he suggested. "Yes, and I'll take this bottle with me." "You found nothing on the roof?" "No, I did not," he observed. "That in an age of individualism supposedly was a good old 'free' Viceroy—these seemed to strive for all residences exactly alike? The splendid homes are as much as packing cases. Yet today, we grumble of being standardized, mechanized, cast in a mold, every person builds a home such unlike his neighbor's as a fish." "Grunted McEniry, fretting a bit. 'I never thought of it that way. Don't see anything new, Captain?'"

Montigny measured distances. He stood behind chimney and peered forth at the side, squashed behind parapets. He peered on the roof of Two-Sixty, house in which Price Merriam had perched over at the rear. The cord, I observe, has been cut," he commented. "Only a piece left dangling at the rear hook." "Yes, they had to have a piece of cord so they could trace it," McEniry said. "And I told them not to cut the other end—it shows something was tied to it. The rest of it is inside. Merriam is a hotel, and we have a man on there. We could go down through the trap here if you like." The skylight trap door was closed fast with a bolt, but an inch of glass presently got a rise out of it. The head and shoulders of a policeman, pistol in hand, appeared in the aperture.

"What the—oh, it's you, Inspector. Want to come down? Just a minute, sir." "McEniry laughed. 'Didn't mean to throw a scare into you in this way,' he said. 'The policeman—I haven't heard a pin drop for years.'"

Montigny went at once to the rear window of Merriam's apartment near which the long cord had been suspended. The severed cord still lay carelessly coiled on the floor where Darden had left it.

"With your permission, Inspector, I shall unhook the end of the cord, the remaining piece of cord," said Montigny. "Go to it. No finger-prints to be on that." "Montigny leaned out and carefully detached the dangling piece without untying the knot. The knot occurred to me on the roof," he said. "That some one used the hook, possibly from the roof. You see—a simple slip-knot, Inspector?"

"You're not going to tell me a policeman did it," said McEniry with a grin. "because it is not a policeman's knot?" "It is certainly not that. It is an elementary slip-knot, which no policeman or cowboy would be proud of. At the point I wish to make is, Inspector, that if anyone making a cord fast from this window, ending within the apartment, had ended for it to support at the rear end a bag containing eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of valuables, he would not tied a simple slip-knot. Now, didn't he?" Montigny slipped out a knot with a very slight tug.

"Say, by jingo! The Inspector's left fist struck his left palm with mighty thud. 'You're darned right you're right! He'd have tied it to the blue in the face. Now, didn't Darden see that?'"

He examined it last night, when reality was low," murmured Montigny, handling the long line delicately. "Now at the other end of the cord is a rather stiff cord, ending many of its old loops—see the unmistakable evidence that the line had been knotted at that end, then untied."

"We went over, Thurber's apartment just now," said the sergeant triumphantly, "and we found this."

Just been a bum lead. Garvice might have been miles away. Maybe a ham actor who got a job in stock all of a sudden, in some other state."

"Peut-etre," Montigny stretched out the cord systematically, laying it across the floor in successive lengths. "One other point about this, Inspector—luckily a very stiff cord, as I have said; it strives to go back to its old convolutions. It was not wrapped in a ball—it was not a new ball of cord. Do you agree?"

McEniry nodded slowly. "That's right, too. Look like long loops, don't they?" "Diminishing to quite small circular loops at one end. Do you remember when you flew a kite, Inspector? You re wound your cord upon a stick, first looping it around tightly, with the line at right angles to the stick; then, when you had wound on enough cord to permit it, you wrapped it on at an angle, longitudinally—long loops—"

"Right. It was wrapped around a stick."

There were footsteps on the stairs outside, a restrained rapping at the door. McEniry admitted Sergeant Darden and Detective Samuels.

"Good afternoon, Inspector," said Darden, a new light in his eyes. "Just heard you were in the neighborhood. I've been wanting to report to you. It looks like we've come to the end of the trail."

"What's that? Something new?" "Same old story—Thurber. That cord was his. He admits it. We traced the distribution to a chain store around on Sixth Avenue. Thurber admits he bought it there; says he used it putting up a radio aerial."

"Yeah? How did he use cord, doing that?"

"Oh, his story is that he wanted a hundred-foot antenna, across these back courts here; says he got permission from the people across the way to hitch his aerial to a roof over there, and he had to have a long cord to drag up his aerial wire from below. Says he used the cord a week or so ago, and hadn't given it another thought; had it wrapped around a pencil, he says, when he re wound it."

McEniry winked at Captain Montigny. "Oh, we knew that all the time," he said. "didn't we, Montigny?"

Montigny smiled faintly. "Well, Thurber says he 'might' have left it on the roof, he doesn't remember," Darden went on. "He freely admits it is his—or a cord like it was. But here's something else he doesn't admit."

Darden brought a small envelope from his side pocket. He drew from it a glittering object.

"We went over Thurber's apartment with a fine-tooth comb, just now," said the Sergeant triumphantly, "and we found this hidden away—behind some books in his bookcase."

May Head Opera

John Erskine, professor and novelist, may become impresario of the Metropolitan Opera Company to succeed Herbert Witherspoon, who died of heart attack month after taking post.

"The question that gnaws at my mind," said Montigny, "is this—when did Glenn Thurber have the opportunity to hide the diamond and platinum bracelet in his rooms?"

"Last night," replied Darden promptly. "Just before I sent him down to headquarters. I let him go in his apartment to telephone and to get whatever he wanted to take to jail with him. He must have had this wrist watch in his pocket—holding it out on the other thieves, probably. They do that."

"To be sure, they do that," agreed Montigny.

"We won't get anywhere if we stand here jawing about it," fumed the Inspector. "No use to watch this house any longer, Darden. Let this officer go. Anything else?"

"Captain Nobley told me to tell you he was ready with the equipment you wanted," said Darden. He's over at the Elderbank house now."

"Good. We'll go there now. All set, Montigny?"

"Quite set, Inspector."

Captain Nobley and his assistant were awaiting them, looking rather bored, in the Elderbank drawing room. The ultra-violet apparatus, assembled and ready for business, stood at one side, a strangely incongruous object among the dainty furnishings of the room. It was a nickle-plated standing lamp of highly technical appearance, somewhat of the type of equipment used in hospitals for ultra-violet radiation. Its source of light was a mercury vapor arc in a quartz generator contained in its metal hood, but it differed from the familiar lamps of its type in that it was equipped with a filter of glass which, when the light was off, appeared totally black.

Montigny examined it with pride and satisfaction. "Hanna," he said. "Excellent. We borrow from the Germans today, Inspector. Let us hold our séance upstairs in the bedroom. Shall we? You brought your microscopes too, Captain Nobley?"

"Two of them," replied that expert uninterestedly. "But I don't see how they are going to help you—or this dingo, either."

In the bedroom where Violet Elderbank had been murdered Montigny established his laboratory. There were no preliminaries to the use of the quartz burner lamp save to plug in its cord at a convenient electric outlet.

"It requires three or four minutes for the burner to heat," said Montigny, "and while we are waiting, Captain Nobley, I suggest we get out the microscopes."

"All ready, I brought the most powerful I have—one Zeiss and one Swift."

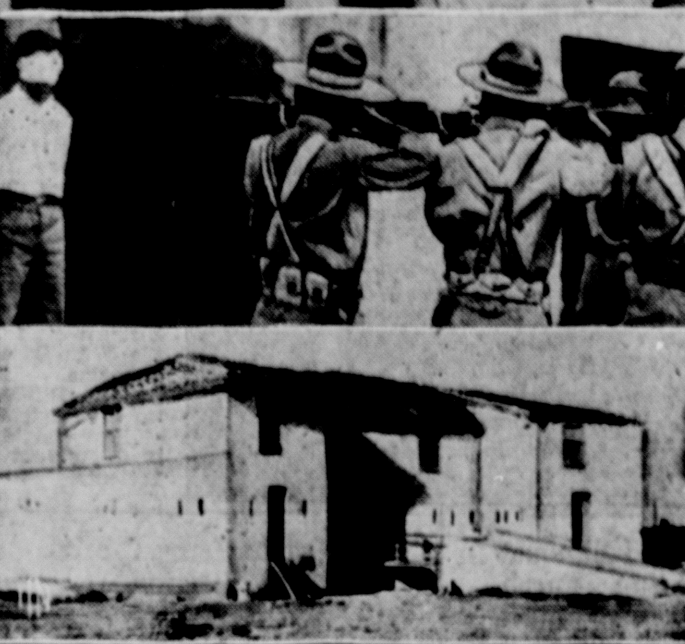

"Splendid. I wish merely to establish, if possible, the difference between the granules of wood soot and the granules of burnt cork. Can we do that microscopically, Captain?"

"Why, certainly," replied Nobley, in a slightly injured tone. "Who said we couldn't?"

"Nobody. Just a minute then, Captain. There is burnt cork in the bedroom downstairs—the one that was used as a dressing room by the dancer."

Read below what leading sports champions say about Camels

With the preference of star athletes overwhelmingly for one cigarette, that cigarette has to be exceptionally mild! Its name is—Camel. Here's what an Olympic champion diver, Harold ("Dutch") Smith, says about Camels: "I've found a great deal of pleasure in Camels. They never interfere with my wind." Rip Collins, of the St. Louis Cardinals, says: "Here's the best proof I know that Camels are mild: I can smoke them steadily, and they never get my wind."

Rowland Duffon, of the New York A. C., says: "Camels never upset my nerves or get my wind. That's what I call real mildness!"

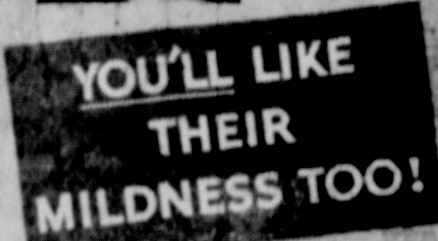

Dick Shelton, world-champion steer dogger, and these two brilliant campaigners in the golfing wars, Denny Shute and Helen Hicks, have come to the same conclusion—"Camels do not get my wind."

How this mildness is important to you too!

Camel smokers can smoke more—and enjoy smoking more. You get more satisfaction, knowing that sports champions have found Camels so mild that they never jangle their nerves or get their wind.

HAROLD ("DUTCH") SMITH, Olympic Diving Champion, who has smoked Camels for nine years—even before he took up diving. He says: "I'd walk a mile for a Camel." Among his team-mates on the Olympic squad who are also Camel fans: Leo Sexton, Helene Madison, Jim Bousch, Josephine McKim, Bill Miller, and Georgia Coleman.

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

YOUR OWN PHYSICAL CONDITION—your wind...your energy...the good health of your nerves—is important to you too. So remember this: Camels are so mild you can smoke all you want. Athletes say Camels never get their wind or nerves.

SO MILD! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

Pennant Stop?

CLEVELAND'S bat-brandishing redskins are determined to make a last ditch effort to win the American league pennant, and according to expert opinion, all the Indians need to accomplish this feat is just a fair share of the breaks. And, they seem to be getting them.

Sir Walter Johnson, famed "Big Train" of pitching history, must deliver a pennant for Billy Evans this time or he will get the well-known heave. There are those who say that Cleveland would have finished on top last year if a more inspiring leader than the quiet, even-tempered Swede had been at the helm, but, of course, this is mere conjecture by the second guessers.

It is true that Big Barney is not the fiery, dynamic pilot of the Frisch and Cochrane brand, but after all, Miller Huggins proved that a colorless, unassuming type of leader can also reach the peaks of managerial success if he has baseball brains.

His players like Johnson, and would undoubtedly rather work under a kindly boss like the "Big Train" than to be constantly harried by a driver of the McGraw school, but up to now Sir Walter's managerial efforts have achieved nothing remarkable in the way of results. This year he is on the spot, and he knows it.

A Walkaway

IT WAS literally a walkaway for Henry Cleman.

The veteran heel-and-toe racer from Toronto, Canada, held the National A. A. U. 50,000 meter walking championship today for the second straight year by a comfortable margin.

He finished in front of a field of 71 walkers late yesterday at Cincinnati after covering the 31 miles 125 yards in 4 hours 57 minutes 29 seconds, 18 minutes ahead of Ernie Croshaw of Detroit who won second place in 5:15.49.

Cleman, representing the Achilles club of Toronto shaved 31 seconds from his mark of last year and might have done better if he had not had to walk the last two miles in water ankle deep after two rain storms.

It was the fourth consecutive time that Croshaw had finished second to the Canadian in a 50,000 meter race.

Salem Cindermen Lose To East Palestine In Annual County Track Meet

Brown & White Take Last Two Events To Retain Championship

Quaker Athletes Show Up Well In Annual Columbiana County Classic and Score 51 1-10 Points; Palestine Gets 63 1-5 As Four Records Tumble

Piling up points like an adding machine, Salem High school's cindermen, flashed through the 32nd annual Columbiana county meet here Saturday afternoon only to lose to the East Palestine brown and white when the Palestine athletes captured the last few events to score some very valuable points.

East Palestine, who held the county track crown last year, finally came through with 63 1-5 points, edging out the Quakers who polled 54 1-10 through hard, earnest efforts on the part of the whole bunch of Salem cindermen.

Salem captured the pole vault event when Paul Layden and Dick Eakin tied for first and second. Eakin also came in second in the 120 high hurdles. Roelen came in first for Salem in the mile run. The Quakers were second in the half-mile relay and Catlos ran the 440 for Salem to win.

Roelen came in first in the 880 for Salem, trailed by another Quaker, Wernet. Al Rich captured the broad jump while his brother, John, who hurt his ankle, was given third place.

Salem was second in the final event, the mile run. East Palestine, by reason of taking the last event and placing second in the broad jump, won the meet.

Libson, with a small group of athletes came in third in the journey, having 19 points. Columbiana was fourth with 15 1-10 and Wellsville polled 10. Leetonia was sixth and 2 3-5 and East Liverpool was seventh with one point.

Records Shattered

Four new records were set Saturday and all by East Palestine men. Mort hopped the 220 yard low hurdles in 26 seconds, bettering the mark of Bruce Arnold, Salem boy, by one tenth of a second. Switzer, another Palestine's star thin-clad, set a new mark in the high hurdles, when he smashed through to victory in 16 seconds, tumbling the old record of 16.1 by Smith of East Palestine.

The Bulldog half-mile relay squad, comprising Bortner, Flynn, Dickens and Mort, ran the distance in 1:35 and thereby broke the old mark of 1:36.5 set last season by Columbiana. The brown and white mile relay foursome, Nuff, Mort, Flynn and Dickens, set a new mark of 3 minutes, 40.9 seconds. The old record stood at 3 minutes, 41.9 set in 1932 by a Salem team.

Salem Surprises

Salem came through for a surprising upset Saturday in the 440-yard dash which was run in two heats against time. Catlos flashed in the first heat to win in 33.6 seconds. Waggenhouse of Leetonia, star quarter-miler of this district and who placed in the state finals last year, won the second heat in 35 flat.

In computing the times for the two races, it was discovered that both Catlos and Nuff of East Palestine ran their race faster than the Leetonia youth, who then was given third rating.

Individual honors went to Coff of East Palestine with 13 points. He scored first in the javelin and shot and second in the discus. Switzer of Palestine, with 11-3-5, was second individual star and Morrison, Wellsville one-man team, was third with 16.

Millers Leading In Association

CHICAGO, May 13.—The margin wasn't much — only two percentage points — but Donie Bush had his Minneapolis Millers in first place in the American association today.

The Millers lead the league most of last season. They were still on top at the end of the regular season, but lost to Columbus in the playoff series. The playoff system is out for as far as the association is concerned this year.

Minneapolis squeezed from third to first place yesterday by taking two decisions from Indianapolis, the erstwhile leader, by identical scores, 3 to 2.

The Millers had 13 victories and eight defeats today for a percentage mark of .652, while the Indians' 13 victories and seven defeats gave them .650.

St. Paul dropped to third place by dividing a doubleheader with Louisville. The Saints hammered out 18 hits to win the opener, 11 to 2, behind Lee Stine's effective hurling. The Colonels came back at the last minute to break even, scoring two runs in the ninth off Gowell Claset for a 2 to 1 decision.

Columbus moved into fourth place ahead of Milwaukee, by winning a doubleheader from Kansas City, while the Brewers halved one with Toledo.

League Opens

CANTON, May 13.—Nina Chevrolet of Canton opened their season in the Northern Ohio Baseball league with a pair of victories over the Massillon West End Merchants at Lakeside stadium, 1 to 0, and 6 to 2.

Bobcats Seek Buckeye Title

Ohio U. Athletes Are After Track Crown Lost Last Year

(By Associated Press)
ATHENS, May 13.—The Bobcats of Ohio university are out to regain the Buckeye conference track title which they won in 1933 and lost to Miami a year ago.

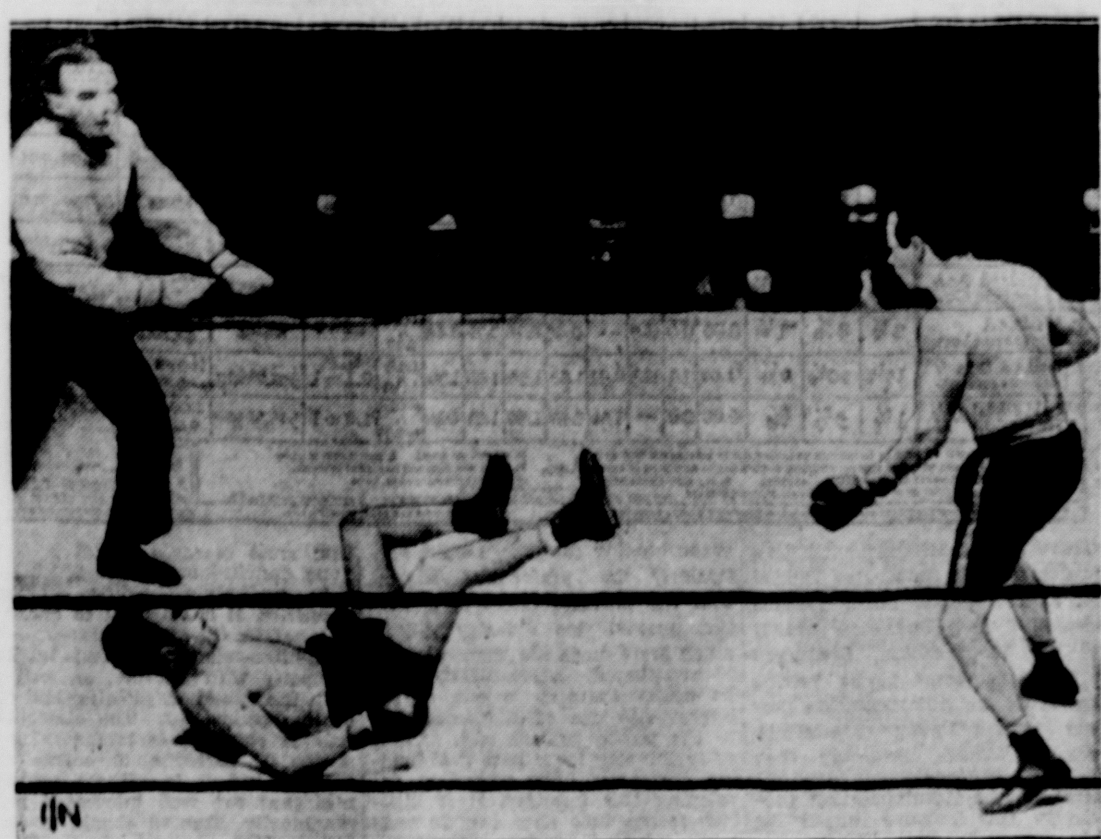

Undeclared in dual meets this season, and boasting a 66-63 victory over the champion Redskins of Miami, the 'Cats are relying on their field and distance stars to bring back the Buckeye trophy.

With the conference meet scheduled here May 24 and 25, Ohio U. feels it has more than an even chance to repulse the invasion of the four other schools.

Paul Hallock, Buckeye discus and shot champ, and his team mate Elmer Peasapian, who has been second in each dual meet this year, should hand several points to Armbrust, in addition to being a good dash man, is expected to win points in the pole vault and low hurdles. Jimmy Gilmore, half-mile record holder for the Buckeye, is counted in the mile and 880-yard events.

The 440 looms as a wide-open affair, with Finsterwald shouldering most of Ohio's hopes. Cy Watkins is Ohio's best two-miler, while Simington is favored to take the broad jump laurels.

Sock That Gave Tony His Crown Again

That a good right hand is a real asset on the comeback road is proven by Tony Canzoneri as he spills Lou Ambers for the first of three knockdowns in their lightweight title fight at New York. Tony regained the crown he lost to Barney Ross by beating Ambers, New York State Boxing Commission's No. 1 candidate for the championship of the lightweight division recently vacated by Ross.

Sectional Golf Tryouts On 24 Courses Today

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 13.—The annual nationwide golf parade—the sectional qualifying rounds for the national open championship—finds 953 shotmakers seeking 108 places on 24 courses today.

Next Monday 134 more golfers, entered in the Chicago district will fight it out for 14 more places in the championship proper to be played at the Oakmont club, near Pittsburgh, June 6-7-8.

The Chicago district test, like the others, was to have been held today but torrential rains Saturday made the Medinah Country club courses unplayable, and a week's postponement was granted by the United States Golf association.

Their Chances
Although Olin Dutra, 1934 champion, and many other leading figures of the game are exempt from the 36-hole medal play qualifying test because they finished among the low 30 and ties at Merion a year ago, a score or more of outstanding stars take their chances with the rest.

The three former holders of the title Cyril Walker, Willie MacFarland and Johnny Farrell as well as Craig Wood, Joe Egar, Clarence Clark, Vic Ghezzi, Bill Mehlhorn and the amateurs, Rudy Knopfer and Gene Homans, seek the 13 places open in the New York district.

Another ex-open king, Walter Hagen, bids for a berth in the Detroit district along with Al Watrous and Chuck Kocals, while Johnny Goodman, 1933 winner, leads the field at Omaha, his home town.

Other prominent players trying to qualify include Joe and Willie Turnesa at Boston; Johnny Fletcher at Cincinnati; Maurice McCarthy at Cleveland; Henry Picard, Ed Dudley and Max Marston at Philadelphia; Harold McSpadden at Kansas City; Jimmie Thompson and Ray Mangrum at Pittsburgh; Walter Emery and Harry Gandy at Tulsa; Tony Manero and Emmett French at Greenboro, N. C.; Charley Yates at Atlanta; Scotty Campbell at Seattle; Willie Goggin at San Francisco and Floy Coleman at Los Angeles.

The Chicago field, the largest of all, includes Tommy Armour at Chicago; Evans, both former champions, besides Jack Hutchinson, Denny Shute, Dick Metz and Frank Walsh.

Ford V-8's Are Shaded By Falls

Cuyahoga Falls bowlers took a close one from the Grate Ford V-8's Saturday night and the Salem legions lost by one point, 2807 to 2806.

The Fords won both the first and third games but lost the second by a few points. Brown rolled 255 and 244 for the local pin crushers.

Withers and Belmont Stakes Lie Ahead for Gallant Omaha

(By ORLO ROBERTSON)
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, May 13.—Omaha, the big red flash from William Woodward's Belair stud, returned home today with prospects of little to beat in his future races following the capping of his decisive Kentucky Derby victory with a galloping triumph in the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

The son of Gallant Fox has whipped all of the leading three-year-olds either in the mud of the Derby or over a fast track in the Preakness and it is hard to find any owner crack at the Woodward ace, at least over the longer routes.

Omaha is eligible for both the Withers mile and the $50,000 Belmont stakes to be decided during the Belmont park meeting opening Wednesday. He might find the Withers a difficult test but the one and one half miles of the Belmont is made for the long-striding chestnut. The Withers will be run May 25 and the Belmont June 8.

Doubtful About Withers
"I'm not sure he'll be in the Withers," said his trainer, Jim Fitzsimmons. "We may decide to give him a rest before going after the Belmont."

The Withers probably will attract a large field, whether Omaha goes or not, as there are some fast horses at that distance in the three-year-old division. They include G. V. Whitney's Today, Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Psychic Bid, and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Plat Eye, all of which trailed Omaha in the Derby after showing early speed.

Psychic Bid had mud kicked in his face at the Down but made a better showing in finishing third in the Preakness.

Although not blessed with early speed, Omaha showed at Pimlico it does not take him long to get into stride. He may go on to prove that he will be a mighty tough horse even at a mile.

"He came out of Saturday's race in fine shape," said Fitzsimmons. "If he continues to stand training, and he's as sound as a dollar, he should have no trouble winning the Belmont."

Omaha was the fourth horse to win both the Derby and Preakness, Sir Barton, Gallant Fox and Burgo King previously having turned the trick. A victory in the Belmont would put him in even a more select group, as Sir Barton and Gallant Fox are the only horses that ever won the "Big Three."

In winning the one and three-sixteenth miles of the Preakness by six lengths, Omaha ran the distance in 1:58.275, only one fifth of a second off the race record hung up by High Gunter in noosing out his stable mate, Cavalcade, last year.

Had Omaha's jockey, Willie Saunders, so desired, the Woodward colt might easily have slashed not only the race record but the track mark of 1:56 made by Gallant Knight.

U. S. Davis Cuppers Trounce Chinamen

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO, D. F., May 13.—After a clean sweep of five matches with China, America's young Davis cup tennis stars looked ahead today to the American zone finals against Mexico here on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The same three newcomers to cup competition—Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Donald Budge and Gene Mako of California—who eliminated China will face the Mexicans. They will be heavily favored to win without losing a match and thus qualify the United States for the interzone finals abroad.

Grant and Budge wound up the series with China yesterday by scoring straight set victories in singles over Sin Kie Kuo and Guy Ching, respectively. Grant won by 6-1, 6-3, scores while Budge scored over Chen at 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

Parmalee's Pitching Aids N.Y. Giants Bid For League Pennant

Right-Hand Fireball Thrower, Who Couldn't Keep Pace With Rest Last Year, Making Great Start This Season

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer
F the New York Giants are sailing along at the top of the National league standing at an even better pace than they hit early last season, Roy (Bud) Parmalee can furnish the explanation.

The right-handed fireball thrower from Lambertville, Mich., couldn't keep pace with the rest of the "Big Four" last year, winning only ten games and losing six and hurling only seven complete games out of 22. This year he made a great start to the top of the new "Big Five," which includes young Cydon Castelman.

After failing to finish his first assignment, which ended in a shutout, Parmalee has racked up four straight victories to move to the head of the National league pitching corps. In those four games he allowed only six runs and 17 hits, turning in two three-hit games and one four-hitter.

Only a streak of wildness marred yesterday's performance in which Roy set down the Pirates with four blows to win 3 to 1. He tossed seven shutout innings with only two hits, then forced in the only Pittsburgh run by passing Pinch Hitter Red Lucas after hits by the two wainers and Walker had crammed the corners.

Parmalee also scored the first giant run after smacking a double in the fifth. The other two tallies came home in the next inning aided by a pair of stolen bases.

Despite the victory, the Giants couldn't shake off the Brooklyn Dodgers, who clung to their place a game and a half behind by trimming the Reds 9 to 1 as Van Mungo chalked up his fifth mound victory. Sam Leslie provided some able backing for Mungo by smacking four straight hits which knocked in five runs.

The third place Cubs benefited by some good elbowing to whip Boston 4 to 1. Lon Warneke limited the Braves to seven hits, fanning six, and smacking four singles for a perfect day at the plate.

The Cardinals completed the triumph of the first division over the second by belting out a 10-8 decision over the Phillies. The teams divided 32 hits. Phil Collins, making his first cardinal start, beat his old mates, although he didn't last the route. Curt Davis, in action after nearly a month's layoff, was knocked out early.

The St. Louis Browns climbed out of the American league cellar by defeating the Red Sox 3-2, while rain kept the other American league clubs idle. The victory, made possible largely by Manager Rogers Hornsby's pinch double in the seventh, put the Browns a half game ahead of the Athletics.

Four Games a Week
Minus the necessary sixth club, the loop will launch its four-games-a-week schedule with New Philadelphia, Canton, Alliance, Mansfield and Tiffin supporting teams, and a traveling club from Cleveland taking in the temporary vacancy.

The league was formed as a Class D loop, organized baseball rules were adopted, and a salary limit of $750 per month set for each club. That salary limit allows the manager $100 per month and each of the other 13 players $50 per month, or $1250 per week.

If the league is able to operate as a part of organized baseball, salaries of the players will be guaranteed. Without organized baseball sanction, the players have a chance to lose if the gate receipts are not sufficient to cover expenses.

Split Season
"Several of the club owners wanted to place their forfeit and get underorganized baseball's protection right away," President Smith said today, "but we finally decided to wait until the league is a bit more stabilized."

The Ohio State loop will play a split season, and President Smith believes he has assured success to the venture by arranging a schedule which will give the fans an opportunity to get out to all games.

The clubs will play Wednesday afternoons, when many stores and other business houses are closed. Saturday afternoons, when the same conditions prevail, and two games Sunday afternoons.

The opening day's slate calls for Canton at Alliance, New Philadelphia at Mansfield, and the Traveling club at Tiffin.

Most of the players will have other jobs, in addition to the baseball, but the low salaries permit them to get out to all games. He stressed the point that the league will not only furnish entertainment for the supporting clubs, but will give the players a chance to work their way up the baseball ladder.

3 Schools Share Honors In Track
OXFORD, May 13.—Dayton Roosevelt High school could crow today about its achievements in the Ohio Kentucky interschool track meet, but it had to concede that Lima Central has a good team, too.

The Daytonians, competing with 600 athletes Saturday in an event which saw three course records fall and two equalled, won the Class A championship with 144 points one point ahead of Lima Central.

However, Lima won four first places against Dayton's two Roosevelt piled up its score by winning numerous second and third places. Cincinnati Withrow finished third in Class A with 29 points. Dayton Oakwood fourth with 25 and Dayton Steele fifth with 22.

Damascus Wins
Damascus softball team won a one-sided tilt over Scrabble Sunday, 8 to 2, with R. Brudery pitching and E. Cecher catching for the winners. R. Barichy and L. Brantingham were battery mates for the losers.

Salem To Enter Roumanian Loop

Movie Title, "Scarlet Pimpernel" Proves Puzzle to Many Film Fans

"What does it mean?"

The question comes from scores of cinema addicts who are puzzled over the unusual title of Leslie Howard's latest film, "The Scarlet Pimpernel," slated to follow "Reckless" at the State theater. The Scarlet Pimpernel will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

Some apparently are of the vague opinion that the title has reference to a skin disorder; other that the word "scarlet" must indicate something of a sinful nature.

Nothing of the kind, as those who have read the novel from which the film was adapted, by Baroness Orczy, know full well.

"Scarlet pimpernel" is a tiny flower which grows by the country lanes in England. The effect to the eye owing to the vivid coloring of the flower, is a road flanked by tiny shooting flames.

And Baroness Orczy, something of a botanist, chose this little flower as a symbol of a daring band of adventurers.

Merle Oberon, the starring support, is an English import. She was the unhappy Anne Boleyn in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," and opposite Douglas Fairbanks in his English production, "The Private Life of Don Juan."

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" follows the adventures of a dashing English gentleman, Leslie Howard, who masquerades as a vain, foolish fool, to conceal his activities in saving French aristocrats from the guillotine.

So deep is the intrigue that he carries his masquerade into his own home, permitting his wife to think him a vain silly fool, and to permitting his activities to widen the breach between them.

His wife innocently betrays him to the tribunal, and after a thrilling escape from the firing squad, she learns the truth about him, which opens the way for a deeper and truer love.

Alexander Korda directed this picture. He is distinguished for his direction of "The Private Life of

Henry VIII," Catherine the Great" and "The Private Life of Don Juan."

"Reckless," starring William Powell and Jean Harlow, is shown tonight. There are plenty of peppy songs, clever situations and smart dialogue in the musical review. Comedy is supplied by Nat Pendleton and Ted Healy. Jean Harlow plays a Broadway dancer, William Powell a smart sports reporter, and Franchot Tone his usual role of millionaire playboy.

May Robson portrays Jean's grandmother in "Reckless." Although it is a small part, Miss Robson always gives a good performance.

There are also some clever dance routines with beautiful girls in the ensemble.

V. F. W. Preparing For Buddy Poppy Sale On May 25

The approach of Memorial day, Thursday, May 30, lends added significance to the 14th annual Buddy Poppy sale in this city on Saturday, May 25, when Buddy Poppies will be distributed by volunteer workers.

Sponsored throughout the country by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, America's largest overseas veterans' organization, the Buddy Poppy sale is widely recognized as a practical and patriotic project in behalf of disabled veterans. The V. F. W. post here points out:

The money obtained by the sale of the poppies is used by the V. F. W. for its various relief and welfare projects. One cent from the sale of each Buddy Poppy is added to the maintenance funds of the V. F. W. National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., where the orphans and widows of deceased veterans are provided for. The remaining moneys obtained through the Buddy Poppy sale are used by the local and national units of the V. F. W. for its liaison and service work.

Battle Flu Epidemic in North

Dr. and Mrs. Griest

Point Barrow hospital

Serum was rushed by airplane to Point Barrow, Alaska, to aid Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. Griest, medical missionaries, shown above with their son, in the fight against the influenza epidemic which has claimed more than 300 victims and cost 11 lives. Lower photo shows the small hospital at Point Barrow where victims were taken for treatment.

CLEVELAND — J. J. Shouse, president of the American Liberty league, would hold President Roosevelt wholly responsible for expenditure of the $4,800,000,000 relief fund. Shouse declared in this way he would be responsible for diversions to things other than relief projects.
